With more than 20 years of experience in complex commercial litigation and appeals, Maya has successfully represented clients in a wide range of industries and matters. She has an established track record of achieving positive results for her clients, whether by jury verdict, appeal, settlement, or pre-litigation counseling.

Many of Maya's cases have focused on intellectual property matters, including patent, trade secrets and trademark matters. She has represented clients in matters involving various technologies, including cable television, hearing aid, electronic payments, wireless email, home construction, and other technologies, as well as in ANDA litigation.

Maya also has achieved client victories in litigation and on appeal in matters involving statutory violations, constitutional questions, trade secret misappropriation, contract issues, and product liability. She has significant experience planning, coordinating and executing the defense of complex litigation involving multiple defendants and jurisdictions, including multidistrict litigation.

Maya served in 2001 as a Judicial Clerk for the Honorable Roger L. Gregory of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Over the course of her legal career, Maya has received numerous honors from various organizations and publications, including the American Inns of Court, the Virginia State Bar, Chambers USA, Benchmark Litigation, Virginia Business Magazine, Virginia Super Lawyers, The Best Lawyers in America (IP), and Inside Business.

Maya is the former head of the firm's Intellectual Property Practice Group, sits on the firm's Associates Committee, and is Co-Chair of the Richmond office's Pro Bono Committee. Among other things, she regularly represents parents on a pro bono basis in federal international child abduction cases.

Experience

- Lead counsel for defendant governmental entity in class action alleging violations of constitutional and federal law. The matter is pending.
- Appellate counsel for respondent in international child abduction case, in which the trial court ruled in her favor. The Fourth Circuit affirmed and the U.S. Supreme Court denied the petitioner's petition for writ of certiorari.
- Appellate counsel for defendant governmental entity in case involving the plaintiff's request for attorney's fees. The matter is pending decision.

Maya M. Eckstein

- Appellate counsel for defendant governmental entity in case involving alleged violations of constitutional law. The matter is pending decision.
- Trial and appellate counsel for defendant in trade secret misappropriation suit. A federal jury returned a favorable verdict and was affirmed on appeal.
- Trial and appellate counsel for plaintiff in antitrust and breach of contract suit. A federal jury found in the plaintiff's favor on all counts and awarded significant damages, which were affirmed on appeal.
- Lead counsel for defendant in trade secret misappropriation suit. The case settled favorably.
- Lead counsel for defendant school board in suit alleging violations of US Constitution and federal statutory law. The case settled favorably.

Lewis F. Powell III

SPECIAL COUNSEL

lpowell@HuntonAK.com

Richmond: +1 804 788 8488

Lewis Powell's litigation practice has ranged from complex intellectual property, commercial, fraud, and antitrust cases; to the nuclear regulatory field and environmental and toxic tort matters; and to telecommunications issues. He has handled trial and appellate matters in state and federal courts and regulatory agencies in more than 15 states. His most recent experience was serving as lead counsel in two related jury trials in federal court in 2018. The first was a "bet the company" antitrust and breach of contract case. We represented the plaintiff. After nearly three weeks of trial, the jury returned its verdict entirely in favor of our client, finding that the defendant had violated Section 7 of the Clayton Act and awarding our client substantial damages. Three months later, in a separate trial against the same adversary, which had alleged in a counterclaim that our client had misappropriated 67 trade secrets, a different jury rejected nearly all of the allegations.

In other notable cases, Lewis was lead counsel in (i) a five-week trial involving the alleged misappropriation of highly confidential software designs; (ii) a jury trial of a multimillion dollar fraud and breach of contract action; and (iii) the defense of a major national retailer in a product liability suit brought by the parents of a toddler who suffered a catastrophic brain injury in a crib accident. He also served as co-counsel in major appellate litigation before the DC Circuit in cases involving national environmental policy.

He is admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court; the Fourth, Second, and DC Circuit Courts of Appeal; and the United States District Courts for Eastern and Western Districts of Virginia. He is a regular lecturer on federal civil procedure and litigation in the Eastern District of Virginia.

Experience

- Regularly defended a major financial services company in consumer class actions and other litigation.
- Retained by major national retailer to handle appeal of runaway defamation verdict.
- Represented substantial public companies in separate RICO actions against labor unions, union executives, and affiliated labor organizations.
- Defended major energy company in complex commercial dispute involving allegations of fraud, conspiracy, and breach of contract.

Lewis F. Powell III

- Represented a leading US pharmaceutical company in major unfair competition and Lanham Act suit against foreign competitor and defending antitrust counterclaim asserted by domestic competitor.
- Represented lead defendants in Missouri dioxin litigation (eight-month jury trial), Hipps Road groundwater contamination litigation in Florida, and Combustion toxic tort litigation in Louisiana.
- Represented one of country's largest telecommunications carriers in state administrative and federal court actions in multiple states arising under the Telecommunications Act of 1996.

Accolades

- Selected as a Super Lawyer for Business Litigation, The Washington Post Magazine and Virginia & West Virginia Super Lawyers Magazine, 2006-2021
- Named as a "Master of the Courtroom," National Law Journal, 2018

Kevin draws on his experience as a federal prosecutor in the Eastern District of Virginia and an investigative counsel for the congressional investigation into January 6th to help clients in complex trials, appeals, and government investigations. Across his career in public service and private practice, Kevin has tried criminal and civil cases to juries, argued before the US Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, prepared Supreme Court and appellate briefs, handled dozens of contested motions and hearings in state and federal courts, and represented clients in civil, criminal, and congressional investigations.

Between 2021 and 2022, Kevin served as Investigative Counsel to the House Select Committee to Investigate the January 6th Attack on the United States Capitol. In that role, Kevin conducted more than 60 interviews and depositions, briefed Members and their staff, coordinated the presentation of evidence for the Committee's landmark televised hearings, and contributed to the Committee's final report. Before joining the Select Committee, Kevin served as an Assistant United States Attorney in the Eastern District of Virginia, where he investigated and prosecuted fraud, weapons, drug, and child-exploitation offenses. He also supervised the Eastern District's Suspicious Activity Report (SAR) review teams to identify leads for criminal investigations and served as the Richmond Division's District Election Officer, the prosecutor responsible for overseeing the handling of complaints of election fraud and voting rights concerns.

A native Virginian, Kevin graduated from James Madison University with undergraduate and master's degrees and worked as a high school social studies teacher before attending law school. After graduating first in his class at William & Mary Law School, Kevin served as a law clerk to the Honorable John A. Gibney, Jr. of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia, and then to the Honorable Robert B. King of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Following his clerkships, Kevin began his career as a litigation associate in the firm's Richmond office. In 2018, Kevin earned the firm's annual writing award for the best legal brief written by an associate.

Kevin maintains an active pro bono practice and has represented pro se litigants with constitutional and civil rights claims in the Fourth Circuit and the Eastern and Western Districts of Virginia. He volunteers as a mentor with The Appellate Project, a nonprofit organization focused on encouraging and empowering law students of color to excel in the field of appellate law. Kevin is also the host of the firm's podcast Holding Fourth, which explores topics related to practicing before the US Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit.
